The State Must Go Forward, Officials Declare

ELABORATE PLANS MADE BY DOCTORS FOR DISTRICT MEET

Three Hundred Will Be In Attendance Is Indication Now

PRES. HAGGARD WILL BE GUEST

Entertainment Program Calls For Many Diversions

Elaborate plans have been made by the Morgan County Medical Society for entertaining the three hundred visiting physicians, including Dr. W. D. Haggard, of Nashville, president of the American Medical Association, who will be here to attend the meeting of the northwest district doctors on September 25.

The business sessions will be held in the auditorium of the Decatur city hall, beginning at 10 o'clock.

The program follows:
Meeting called to order at 10 o'clock
Invocation—Rev. J. D. Hunter, Albany.

Addresses of Welcome—W. W. Callahan, City Attorney, Decatur; Dr. F. C. Chenuault, Pres. Morgan County Medical Society, Albany-Decatur.

Response—Dr. J. S. McLester, Birmingham.

Some Observations on Acute Appendicitis. Dr. S. L. Ledbetter, Jr. Birmingham.

"Double Uterus, With Case Report." Dr. A. A. Jackson, Florence.

Observations of some of the Surgical Clinics on the Continent, and Remarks on Gye's Cancer Virus. Dr. W. D. Haggard, Pres. A. M. A., Nashville.

Miscellaneous business.

Luncheon, Lyons Hotel.

Interpersing the addresses by the well known physicians, will be round table discussions of the subjects by various doctors from the floor, the committee announced today.

The entertainment features being arranged are many. Dr. Haggard will be the guest of honor at breakfast at the Lyons hotel, given by Dr. D. Greer, well known local physician.

During the day the Country club will be open for the visitors, and following the luncheon, golf, automobile rides and various other entertainments are being planned for the guests.

The day will be brought to a fitting climax with a banquet at the Lyons honor of Dr. Haggard, given by the Morgan County Medical Society.

Committees in charge of the arrangements today announced that acceptances are coming in rapidly for the meeting and present indications point the gathering here being one of the largest attended medical meetings ever held in North Alabama.

Mother of Slayers of Husband Dies

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 18.—Funeral services this morning at the Mt. Zion church for Mrs. S. A. Merritt, of Crenshaw county, marked the second visitation of death to the Merritt household in four days.

Sunday afternoon Sam A. Merritt, husband of the dead woman, was shot and killed in a quarrel with his two sons, Furman and Marshall of this city. The boys came to the Montgomery county jail after the shooting and gave themselves up, saying they had killed in self defense. The shooting is said to have taken place in a room where the mother lay desperately ill.

Mrs. Merritt's illness was aggravated, it is thought, by the tragedy enacted at her bedside and her condition grew worse.

Almon Reminds Pupils Of Duties They Owe To Constitution

Congressman Edward B. Almon spoke for thirty minutes yesterday afternoon to the students of Decatur high school on "The Constitution" this being "Constitution Week."

Congressman Almon was introduced by State Senator George H. Duncan of Limestone county, and was given interested attention by the large number of pupils present.

The speaker told of the difficulties which were overcome before the American constitution, the greatest governmental document in history finally was written. He urged his hearers to familiarize themselves with every provision of the constitution and reminded them of the duties they owe in upholding the provisions of the great document.

NEGRO CONFESSES TO ATTACKING GIRL

Is Spirited Away From Threatening Mob In Ohio Town

(Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 18.—Spirited from the midst of a threatening throng and fired upon several times, when he attempted to escape last night, James Henry, 37, negro, has confessed that he attacked and then fatally injured Edna Roswell, 14 year old school girl, near Addyston, O., Wednesday afternoon.

The girl died several hours after being found in the woods near her home with her skull fractured and numerous lacerations on her arms, legs and face.

Robbery was the primary motive for the crime, the negro said. He had accosted her on another occasion and taken $1.60 from her, he said. Wednesday afternoon he lay in wait for the girl with the intention of robbing her again. The attack, he asserted, was an afterthought.

Officers say he will get a speedy trial. He is charged with murder, criminal attack and robbery. He is being held in jail here.

Funeral services will be held for the victim at Lebanon, Ky., her former home.

BRANDON PROMISES TO CALL SESSION IF BACKERS CAN AGREE

If Working Plans Are Made Solons Will Be Called Together

BOND ISSUE IS AGAIN TO FORE

Several Means Now are Suggested To Raise Funds For Schools

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 18.—Possibilities of an extra session of the legislature will be very strong if legislators and administrators can get together on a definite program of road building, education, and action on the port of Mobile, Governor W. W. Brandon said here today, in answer to rumors to the effect that such a session will be called.

The road program, which must be agreed upon, would embrace the issuance of a large amount of bonds, it is generally understood. The highway commission favors a $75,000,000 issue, it is understood, while more conservative members of the administration favor a $25,000,000 bond issue.

Removal of restriction on the expenditure of the $10,000,000 voted by the people for port development also is expected to be agreed upon. The legislature placed certain restrictions upon the spending of this money during the 1923 session and it is understood in the event of a special session, these restrictions will be removed.

Several means have been suggested by which to raise money for education. The general consensus of opinion has it that no further ad valorem tax on property will be voted and it is expected that a tax on cosmetics, soft drinks and other luxuries will be put into effect to provide revenue for schools.

Other problems that may confront the extra session, if such is held, are the regulation of business of using state highways and introduction of a bill re-establishing a double primary system in the state.

CLUB ENTERTAINS SCHOOL FACULTIES

"Constitution Week" Is Observed By Morgan Kiwanians

A special program will be rendered by the Morgan Kiwanis club at the weekly meeting to be held at seven o'clock this evening at the Y. M. C. A., marking the club's participation in "Constitution Week" which is being observed by Kiwanis clubs all over the nation.

Members of the faculties of the schools will be guests of the club this evening. President Mathews announcing that more than 50 guests are expected on this occasion.

The week was set aside by the international organization of Kiwanis to seek to bring about a better knowledge of the constitution among American citizens. S. A. Lynne, well known local attorney, is chairman of the program in the local club.

HIGH PRAISE FOR LATE ENGINEER

William S. Keller Was Born on Banks of Tennessee River

The new Tennessee river bridge here will be called "The Keller Memorial Bridge" if resolutions, adopted Thursday evening at a banquet here, attended by members of the state highway commission and other officials are approved by the commission. The action was in line with a suggestion made originally by W. W. Fussell, local banker.

The resolutions were introduced by Hon. S. A. Lynne, local attorney, and former speaker of the Alabama house. The resolutions paid tribute to the first and only engineer of the state, and urged the commission to honor his memory by designating the bridge as a memorial to him.

Following the unanimous adoption of the resolutions, copies were presented in person to Chairman Rogers who sat at the speakers table during the evening.

The resolutions follow: WHEREAS, the State Highway Department of Alabama has recently lost by death, its Highway Engineer, William Simpson Keller; and

WHEREAS, William Simpson Keller was born on the banks of the great Tennessee River, one of the most magnificent streams of the nation; devoted his manhood to the creation and development of a great system of highways throughout his native state a work that he carried on under difficult conditions;

Tennessee Speaker In Address Pays Tribute To Daily Founder

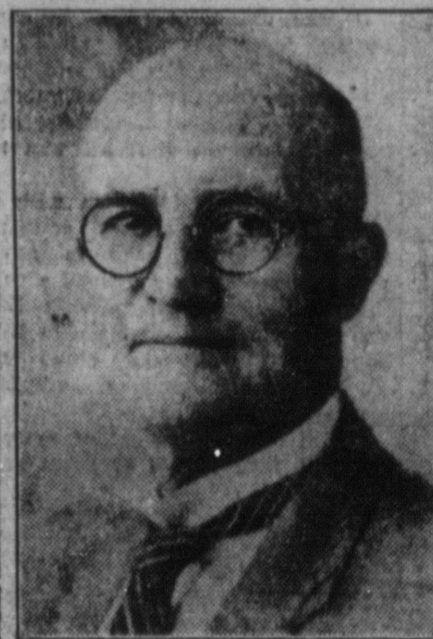

Hundreds stood in the blazing sun of a September afternoon Thursday, where the majestic Tennessee flows tranquilly past the Alabama street site of the new Tennessee river bridge, to hear T. H. Alexander, representative of Governor Austin Peay of Tennessee, Congressman Ellick of the Seventh Tennessee District and Governor William W. Brandon, chief executive of the state of Alabama, in eloquent addresses upon the relationship of neighboring states, progress of the southland, the real development in store for the Tennessee Valley through the building of the great bridge here and the unequivocal support of Governor Brandon to the proposed $75,000,000 road-bond issue.

The program at the bridge site was opened shortly after 2 o'clock with several selections by the Boy's Industrial band. After posing for newspaper photographers in front of the speakers stand, John Patterson, master of ceremonies introduced Judge John C. Eyster who in turn presented T. H. Alexander, former Albany-Decatur resident and one of the brilliant trio of speakers selected for the memorable occasion.

Mr. Alexander spoke in part upon the progressive feeling throughout Tennessee, the continued effort on the part of that state for the building of the best road system in the south,

GENERAL GREETED WITH EGG SHOWER

Mulcahy 'Welcomed' by Irish Republican Sympathizers

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Having been welcomed to the United States by a mob of Irish republican sympathizers who hurled rotten eggs, tomatoes and sticks General Richard Mulcahy, former commander of the Irish free state army and four companions are here on their way to the inter-parliamentary union at Washington.

The general and his party were attacked by surprise last night when they disembarked from the liner President Roosevelt at Hoboken. Punched in the face and kicked on the legs, Mulcahy was almost knocked from his feet, before he left the gangplank.

A crowd of more than 100 persons, mostly women, scattered the friendly welcoming party with shouts of "black and tan". The docks police were powerless. Several eggs and tomatoes hit the general. One of his party was gashed above the eye with a stick. Others were severely pummeled. Banners inscribed "Mulcahy murderer, Mulcahy traitor" were borne.

One banner bore the inscription "George Washington and Eamon de Valera; Benedict Arnold and Mulcahy." A woman pinned a union jack on the general's coat lapel. A riot call finally brought police reserves and the visitors were rushed to a taxi cab and spirited across the river to New York. Three women, and two men were arrested. They were from Jersey City, Brooklyn and New York.

SIBERT TELLS OF WORK FOR PORT

Project Not One For the City of Mobile Alone But For State

Following their celebration Thursday of the beginning of work on the Tennessee river highway bridge at this point, Albany and Decatur today was taking stock of what developed into probably one of the largest good roads gatherings of its kind held in Alabama in recent years.

The proposed $75,000,000 roads bond issue, which received strong endorsement at the meetings here, and the future of the Bee Line Highway were stressed particularly in the series of gatherings featuring the day's program.

Spurred by Congressman Ellick's declaration that Tennessee already has paved every mile of the Bee Line highway in that state, but one section between Columbia and Pulaski, and soon would pave that stretch, speakers urged that Alabama finish the project at the earliest possible date, and spoke glowingly of the strength of the bridge link in that great highway chain.

The $75,000,000 bond issue seemed to be on the minds of practically every speaker, following the address of John A. Rogers, chairman of the highway commission, at the Princess theater Thursday morning when he spoke to an overflow crowd in favor of the issue. At the close of the meeting a resolution, introduced by John Patterson, Morgan County legislator, pledging support of the issue was passed almost unanimously.

At the banquet Thursday evening, Lieutenant Governor Charles McDowell, in lending his endorsement directly to the issue, took advantage of the opportunity to call directly on Governor Brandon to convene the legislature in special session to consider the bond issue and prepare the necessary enactments to submit the proposal to the people.

Senator J. Thomas Hefflin, in fact, provided the only hint of lack of approval, declaring that he came here not to launch a campaign in behalf of a $75,000,000 bond issue. While praising the work the highway commission has accomplished, Senator Hefflin declared he was not yet ready to commit himself to a bond issue for that amount.

He asserted further that he wished to correct any impression that the federal government would stop lending financial aid to states in road construction in two years. While the current congressional act, providing such aid, will die in two years, he asserted positively that a new law would be passed, continuing government aid to state highways.

President Coolidge will not be able to curtail these expenditures, he declared.

The afternoon speaking program finally developed into a "love feast" for Alabamians and Tennesseans. While each of the three speakers found much to be proud of in their own commonwealth, each saw many virtues also in their sister states. Governor Brandon very aptly illustrated this feeling in a story he related of the actions Wednesday morning of two servants in the state white house. He said he went into the kitchen and found an old trusted servant he had taken to Montgomery from Tuscaloosa, with the ebony cheek of his spouse resting on his shoulder. The old couple were petting each other and he heard the wife ask her husband: "Who's sweet?" and the

Today:

By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright, 1925, By The Star Co.) For Albany-Decatur Daily.

NEWS of the day, that will be important in the history of a thousand years hence, is the decision of voters in Maine approving $100,000,000 expenditure to harness the tides in Passamaquoddy Bay. That power, according to Dexter P. Cooper, able engineer, will give four times the energy that can be developed at Muscle Shoals, namely, 3,268,000,000 kilowatt hours per year.

THIS means creating the equivalent of 500,000 horsepower all the year round. The price will be cheap for a "horsepower" does not have to be fed, watered, bedded down, groomed, shod, doesn't get glanders or epizootics, does not grow old or die.

FIVE HUNDRED thousand horsepower that will last, rushing through turbines, as long as ocean tides rise and fall, will make Maine one of the greatest industrial states in the Union, and add tens of billions to the state's wealth.

LET'S HOPE those enterprising corporation gentlemen will wait at least a month or two before getting the project away from the citizens that are going to pay for it.

EVEN more exciting than the great Bay of Fundy power project, but less important, in our earthly struggle for existence, is the result of Dr. Knute Landmark's studies of the nebulae, strange clusters in the distant heavens, reminding you of frog's eggs floating on a pond.

The Ocean Harnessed
Count Quadrillions
No Marriage, No Career
His Piece of Earth.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright, 1925, By The Star Co.) For Albany-Decatur Daily.

DR. LANDMARK, a great scientist of Sweden, calculates that some of these nebulae are moving away from us at the rate of 2,000 miles a second, more than 7,000,000 miles an hour.

That's speed worth talking about. It makes 300 miles an hour by airplane seem contemptible.

YOU have been swimming in the ocean, with jellyfish bumping against you, making you feel that the water was almost made up of jelly fish.

Dr. Landmark says that space around us, is a crowded ocean of Ether. All space is thickly soured with meteors, the sort that occasionally strike the earth, or melt as they strike our atmosphere, and are called "shooting stars."

For every million cubic miles of space, according to the learned doctor there are six thousand meteors and there are 1,000,000 cubic miles of space in every cubic block of ether 100 miles square.

NO MAN can conceive the number of meteors that we pass in our annual spiral journey of more than 500,000,000 miles around the sun.

Imagine a column 100 miles square, reaching from the earth to the sun, it would contain 5 quadrillion, 580 trillion rushing meteorites, a sum that may be written out as follows: 5,580,000,000,000,000

AS TO the number of meteorites occupying the space between this earth and the sun, in one year's

SYNOPSIS

It is Bob Manning's twenty-first birthday. In the morning he has gone to his parents' bedroom and received the congratulations of father and mother while the former arranged his necktie. While he is there he hears a long drawn "oo-ah" and rushes out to be greeted by Marjorie Patterson, their neighbor's daughter. She is at the top of a ladder against the wall separating the two properties and Bob climbs up a ladder on the Manning side.

CHAPTER II—Continued

"Bob, it's your birthday, isn't it?" she demanded eagerly. He conceded the fact, but guardedly, as if suspicious of the use to which she would put the information. "I've a birthday present for you." Curiosity seemed at last to have awakened a real interest within him. Yet, he looked into those beautiful eyes and regarded the palpitating eagerness with which she concealed her hands behind her and indicated that he must choose, with calmness, yes, with disapproval. "Oh, what's the good of that, you are going to give it to me anyway, aren't you?" "But it's more fun guessing," she pleaded with a look which might have bewitched a saint. "Oh, well," he condescended, but when he had chosen both hands in succession and evoked nothing better than a tantalizing giggle, he grew suspicious. "You're switching—that's what you're doing." Caught red handed in her vil-

"Good news—the best of news," he cried.

lainy, she finally produced a package and handed it to him. Sure of it now, he inspected the dainty parcel with the tormenting slowness of one who delights in prolonging anticipation.

"Hurry," she urged. And when he failed to act, in her eagerness reached forth and snapped the string to draw forth a long, crocheted bag which she dangled before his eyes with pride.

"What is it?" he demanded wonderingly. "That's for your golf clubs—I crocheted it myself."

"Golf clubs?" Surely Bob's heart was of adamant for he burst into laughter.

"You don't like it?"

"Ah, there was a tender spot in Bob's breast. Touched by her hurt tones and the disappointment in her eyes, his mirth died.

"It's all right."

"You are sure you really like it?" she persisted, half convinced.

"Certainly, it's splendid."

"Well, then," said Marjorie boldly but stricken with something like a blush. "Seeing it's your birthday, I suppose you can kiss me."

"Kiss you?" Here was surprise when there should have been eagerness. Furthermore the alacrity with which a fond lover should have grasped the opportunity to taste the savor of so sweet a maiden's lips was strangely absent. As she closed her eyes and waited on the ladder with puckered lips, he sat motionless gazing at them as if held in the clutches of a spell.

"Yes—come on," and to give even greater expression to her desires, she leaned towards him until the ladder shifted ominously.

For an instant longer he hesitated, still staring as if spellbound at those rosy lips so temptingly presented for his enjoyment, then, as if drawn by their witchery, he too, leaned slowly forward. So slowly indeed, that Marjorie felt it incumbent upon her to expedite matters by advancing even further.

Alas, ladders are very tricky contraptions and this one was no better than the kindred. It shifted, slid and finally just as Bob was upon the point of sampling the rich fruit before him, it toppled and fell, carrying Marjorie down with it.

From his safe vantage point on the wall, Bob looked down at the shaken figure below.

"Are you hurt, Marjorie?" She gazed up and in her eyes were surprise and ruffled dignity, yes, and perhaps disappointment.

"Don't you laugh, Bob Manning!" "I'm not laughing," he protested promptly, and then his eyes strayed homeward.

"But I'd better be thinking about getting back—back to breakfast if you are all right. It must be breakfast time." And Bob disappeared behind the wall.

It was breakfast time. Eileen, having instructed the maid to serve the meal, had paused to give a deft touch to the flowers on the table and to glance about the breakfast room to see that all was in order.

It was a beautiful room with a lovely view of rolling country where the great windows gave upon the terrace and formed a setting in perfect keeping with Eileen's mood this morning. In her happiness lurked no cloud or shadow as her husband, carrying a newspaper, entered.

"Good news—the best of news," he cried with an air of great satisfaction.

She glanced quickly at him. "About the election?"

John nodded. "A careful poll of ten districts indicates an overwhelming sentiment in favor of my re-election. Of course, the Star has supported me from the first, but it is a conservative sheet. What's more, its estimate of the situation supports my own. It seems to me that I am to have little real opposition. But," his face sobered, "you never can count on anything in such matters until the actual returns are in. Now that I'm in the race, I want to win, not so much for the office as to get a confirmation of my policies from the people."

She regarded him with undisguised pride. Perfectly groomed, he was now the picture of a successful man. A strong, forceful man, with character written in every line of his face.

"Of course, you will win, John," she told him confidently.

"Where's Bob?" he demanded, becoming aware of his son's vacant chair. "Has that infant vampire still got him in her clutches?"

"Clutches," retorted Eileen serenely. "I suspect she is not detaining him from his breakfast against his will. She must appeal to him as quite agreeable to make him miss an opportunity to eat."

"Well, he told me last night that he wanted to go into town with me this morning. Regardless of the allurements of his charmer, he had better hurry. I am due in court at nine o'clock."

"Mr. Bledsoe, to see you, sir," interrupted the maid.

Surprised, a shadow clouded John's face as he glanced at the proffered card.

"Isn't his son's trial this morning?" asked Eileen, quickly.

He nodded and turned to the girl with decision.

"Tell Mr. Bledsoe, I am very sorry but I cannot see him."

Eileen viewed him with surprise and stopped the maid with a gesture before she reached the door.

"Oh, John, you can't mean that—hadn't you better see him?" she pleaded.

He shook his head, firm in his course.

"There is not the slightest reason why I should see him, Eileen, and many why I should not. The interview would not only be unpleasant but a waste of his time as well as mine."

Filled with sympathy, Eileen rested her hand upon his sleeve.

"Poor man—please see him, John, there might be something—er—at least it would be more courteous than to refuse him out right."

"Courteous," a smile softened the determination in his face.

"I'm afraid the law is not always courteous, dear." Then, as he looked down at her, "However, if you wish it—"

Boosts Are Given Bond Issue Plans At Banquet Here

husband replied: "Bof of us." Governor Brandon, Congressman Eslick, of the seventh Tennessee district, and T. H. Alexander, representing Governor Austin Peay, of Tennessee, were the three speakers at the afternoon meeting.

The banquet, served in the gymnasium of the Albany high school by the Parent-Teachers Association, brought about a veritable flood of oratory.

Music was furnished as the diners gathered by the Boy's Industrial band and in the auditorium by Houck's orchestra.

Following the invocation of Rev. James D. Hunter, pastor of the Central Methodist church, Miss Dorothy Patterson and Mrs. W. E. Curry rendered several musical numbers, which were received with applause by the large crowd of diners.

General William L. Sibert was introduced by Toastmaster John Patterson as the principal speaker of the evening.

General Sibert spoke of the development of the docks at Mobile, declaring that this development was not a local matter in fact it was not a state matter, but a question affecting the entire South, and one in which every Southern state should be interested.

He said that after two years of preliminary work, the commission now believed that by December bids could be advertised for the construction of the docks.

The nation will continue to grow only as it finds means to export its manufactured products, he said.

Mrs. McGlathery, accompanied by Mrs. H. O. Troup, pleased with two vocal selections, after which Lieutenant Governor Charles McDowell was introduced.

He expressed his appreciation of the magnitude of the bridge project, but gave as his opinion that the biggest thing that had happened "here today" was the approval by the mass meeting of the bond issue plans.

Marvin Rankin, song leader of the Morgan Kiwanis club, with Robert Daniel at the piano, led several musical numbers, the diners joining in the singing with a vim.

Congressman Edward B. Almon spoke of the importance of the bridge here, asserting no nation is great unless there are ample transportation facilities. He urged business men to continue to co-operate with agriculture.

Senator Hefflin expressed his delight at having been here for the celebration and, declaring his complete sympathy with good roads, stood unwilling to commit himself yet to a $75,000,000 road bond issue.

A. G. Patterson, president of the public service commission, said he never had been prouder of this, his own citizenship, than he was today.

Thursday was a day he long has dreamed of. In speaking of good roads, he declared he favored a bond issue, asserting that the legislature could and would fix the amount to be voted on.

He urged that the section and the state continue to go forward in the matter of good roads, but pleaded that the cause of education be not forgotten.

John Hollis Bankhead, approving

Outbreak of Tong War Occurs Again

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Possibility of a resumption of the recent tong war, less than four days after the signing of a formal truce, was seen by the local police in the killing today of Young Sue Gunn, a tong member in New York's Chinatown.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18.—Marking what police believe to be another outbreak of the tong warfare, Wahlee, a Chinese laundryman, was shot and killed and his body hacked with a hatchet after the shooting was heard.

The plan of the state highway commission for connection of each county seat with an improved road declared he favored the same rule applied to the national highways. He would have the federal government connect each state capital with a paved thoroughfare. He could not acquiesce, he said, in the Rogers opinion that the federal government would cut off aid to states for road building.

Travis Williams brought congratulations to the Twin Cities from Franklin county, while F. E. St. John brought felicitations from Cullman County.

THEATRES

"The Prairie Wife" a Hugo Ballin production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer which starts a one day run at the Princess theater tomorrow is the screen adaptation of Arthur Stringer's novel of the West, but contrary to the custom of most Western pictures, offers no wild and woolly portrait but the story of the struggles of a young married couple to make a home, it is the "Old Homestead" of the west.

With realistic touches, Hugo Ballin has directed Dorothy Devore, Herbert Rawlinson, Gibson Gowland, and an excellent supporting cast, in the delightfully different story of a young society girl who marries a Western man, and the difficulties that beset their life in the west.

Members of the Valley Country club will meet tonight to vote on the question of amending the by-laws to permit issuance of non-resident memberships to persons residing outside a 15 mile radius of the club. Formerly the regulations had provided for issuance of such memberships only to persons residing outside a 35 mile radius.

The meeting tonight originally had been set for 7:30 o'clock but on account of the Kiwanis meeting, the hour has been changed to nine o'clock.

Is your appetite gone?

REMEMBER, how it used to be when you could hardly wait for mealtime? And then, sit down and eat several helpings of everything—enjoy every morsel and get up from the table feeling satisfied with the World, happy with everybody and ready for anything?

But what a difference in living when even the sight and smell of food sickens you! Never hungry—no matter how tempting the food is—nothing tasting right. And then, after nibbling at a few bites, feeling worse than ever.

Oh, life is hardly worth living this way. And yet, all in the World matter with you is that you are starving for rich, red blood. And it is acknowledged everywhere that S. S. S. helps Nature build these healthy red-blood-cells by the millions!

All you need to do to get back that wonderful appetite is to build rich, red-blood-cells with S. S. S. It's simple. Just try it, like thousands are doing every day.

See for yourself what S. S. S. will do. S. S. S. means blood with a punch—brimful of new life and energy. Get your S. S. S. at any good druggist. The larger size is more economical.

12 Years Ago TODAY

From The Daily of September 1, 1913

Pete Ballas is steadily improving the Decatur
Cafe, installing a steel ceiling and ceiling lights.
He will shortly put in an orchestra piano.

N. W. George has opened a new repair shop at 115 Lafayette street.

Mr. and Mrs. Newt Hendrix are having their cottage remodeled.

A social gathering of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Central Baptist church was held at the attractive home of Mrs. Paul Terry on Grant street Wednesday afternoon.

Alabama has a long road to travel in reaching the heights of educational attainment already reached by sister states. We are happy to note that the state is slowly but surely moving upward; there has been no backward step. More than $1,000,000 a year is being spent each year in the building and improvement of school facilities and houses. The progress is slow but certain.

Now let's get started on fall business and fall building.
The time of the year for achievement. What is achievement, anyway? We hear lots of people talk about achieving and what is necessary to be done before achievement can be proclaimed, but seldom do we hear a definition. The dictionary version is, "An obtaining by exertion, successful performance." That doesn't mean to wait on the fellow next to you to do all the exerting, try some of it yourself and you may feel assured that the public will gladly write "Achiever" after your name.

A man evidently believing that the old order does not change was standing in the offices yesterday when an elderly man came in with a news item. The elderly man stopped for the moment and declared that while he had been here 25 years that he had never been in this building before. He told of shooting game in the section now called West Albany and Decatur. He remembered when there was nothing here at all but forests and vales. The younger man followed his conversation closely and as he turned to go declared "Yes, one of these days we will be hobbling about telling how well we remember the bridge celebration held here. People will think we are just as eccentric as we believe the old man of today."
It is often a pleasure to delve into the past though others may feel that time is lost in hearing about it.

A FARMER'S FAITH AS DESCRIBED BY ANDREW S. WING

"A Farmer's Faith" is the title of an interesting contribution in the current issue of The Alabama Farmer by Andrew S. Wing. It follows:

"I believe in farming as a way to live and make a living.

"I believe in the dignity of my work. I want no man's patronage, preaching or pity.

"I believe in my soil. It will reward me in proportion to the thought, labor and love I give it.

"I believe in myself. My success depends on me more than on weather, luck or laws.

"I believe in my neighbors. My community, like my soil, returns to me as I give to it.

"I believe in co-operation, in thinking for myself and acting with my fellows.

"I believe that only a united agriculture can insure justice and prevent inequality.

"I believe in education. The more I know the greater my ability to seize opportunities and to be happy. I insist that my children be enabled to learn to be useful, intelligent men and women.

"I believe that living is the most important job in the world and I mean to plan my work so that my family and myself will have the time and means to enjoy life.

"I face the years ahead with confidence, hope and cheer.

"I believe in myself, my fellow man and a Supreme Being.

"I believe in farming."

Citizens who live in the cities make frequent efforts to bring closer co-operation with the farming sections, believing that such a condition would bring more material riches for each. These efforts are beneficial, but we must not forget also that the farmer insists on an opportunity to his children to "learn to be useful, intelligent men and women." How long will it be before Alabamians insist that rural schools have a nine months term?

OPELIKA JUNIOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PLANS ORGANIZATION OF SAFETY COUNCIL

The junior chamber of commerce of Opelika, aroused by the constantly mounting number of traffic accidents, and spurred by the fact that Opelika is growing (realizing that traffic conditions become more and more congested in growing communities) plans the organization of a safety council.

The proposed organization, it is presumed, would disseminate propaganda seeking to inculcate in the minds of the public a higher degree of carefulness than exists at present. In line with this movement the chamber makes public the following suggestions:

Don't try to pass another car on a curve; you'll get hurt sooner or later.

Don't speed; only amateurs do it.

Don't splash mud on innocent bystanders; it's a thoughtless, cruel trick.

Don't lock your brakes when you start to skid;
you'll lose control of your car.

Don't drive fast on wet pavements; you're bound to regret it.

Don't race your motor, slam your doors or sound
your horn late at night; the neighbors may wake up and shoot you.

Don't cut across the inside of a curve; sometime you'll meet another car head-on.

Don't seek to pass another car without first giving a warning toot of your horn; you may get sideswiped.

Don't back your car without looking behind you;
there's always something there.

Don't ride in the middle of the road; another road-hog will tangle with you eventually.

The movement undertaken by the Opelika junior chamber of commerce might well be copied in other communities, when public spirited citizens gather. Work along safety lines will bear results, the safety records made in the Louisville and Nashville shops here are striking evidences of that.

Before the safety first movement was initiated, accidents in railroad shops here and elsewhere were all too frequent. Now the local shops, on several occasions, have operated for months without a single reportable accident occurring.

People who doubt that safety first campaigns will bring results might get some illuminating figures from the Louisville and Nashville railroad company.

THE CELEBRATION IS AT AN END. WHAT IS NEXT?

As the last train pulled out Thursday night and the last distinguished guest departed for his home, the Albany-Decatur bridge celebration event officially came to a close.
There are none who can say that the event was not a success, there are none who will declare that the event will not be advantageous to the Twin Cities from an advertising standpoint. People cannot complain that the celebration was an expense to the cities, for the merchandants paid for it and as the subscription was made individually, the cost cannot be counted as too heavy for any one man.

The celebration is at an end. The plans of many weeks have been successfully carried out and the highway commission as well as the other officials of our great state have been made to feel that Albany-Decatur, Morgan and Limestone counties are indeed grateful for the aid given in the building of the wonderful project, now becoming a reality after the efforts of more than twenty-five years on the part of many citizens who have passed on to the great beyond. If those departed souls were watching over their beloved people Thursday, they were surely happy, for they saw a happy and a contented people, a citizenship that has accomplished a life long aim and a citizenship that does not intend to lose any of the advantages offered at the completion of the great bridge.

We must now place the building of the bridge in the background, for the first time in many months that issue must take a back seat. It is accomplished, through, completed—it is to be taken in the ordinary course of events in the future. Yes, we have a bridge at Albany Decatur a fine bridge, the largest bridge in the state, we offer additional encouragement to the tourist trade that travels the Bee Line highway from one end to the other, but at the explanation the discussion of the bridge should be at an end. We are through, we have won—let us turn our hands and our hearts and minds to other work.

Our cities need a great many things—we like our towns, we love them, but we do not hesitate to reckon with the shortcomings of our locality. You may say, "Haven't we the greatest natural resource in the world?" Yes, we have, but its worth is less than common dirt if there is not a developer back of it. You say, "Haven't we industries in our cities and aren't they working full time shifts on good pay?" All true enough, but we need more industries, diversified industries, numbers of small industries working perhaps fifty men or fifty women—industries that work the year round with little chance for a slump during the summer months. We are not hitting at the Louisville & Nashville railroad shops when we speak of such a condition, we are glad that the great trunk line of the southland, the Louisville and Nashville railroad has come to live with us, is here to stay—we are glad to have them here and accord them every courtesy that it is possible to extend whenever they ask for it, but that does not lessen the fact that there must be a slump in business here during the summer months when the great shops do not need so many men to handle the work of the company. We want diversified industries so that when one industry shuts down for a short period that so many people will not be affected.

In the matter of civic improvement there are city parks to be looked after, properties which now lie almost as waste lands within the corporations and probably the most unsightly grounds in the cities. A city is often measured by the dress it wears, the progressiveness of its people is gauged by the civic improvement that is seen. Why do people paint their houses in the spring of the year?
To be in tune with the surroundings of nature, to make their homes attractive to the outsider, some with a view toward selling. The beauty of the home often brings a higher price. The buyer is pleased with his home, the surroundings and the environs; the seller is pleased with his price and looks for the chance to improve on what he originally built. The constant desire to improve is the keynote in city growth.

We believe that the era of growth has come to the Tennessee Valley—we are of the opinion that the citizens from one end of this glorious Valley to the other have seen the outside world and its progress and that they will not only attempt to emulate that progress, but to go it one better—everything in this Tennessee Valley is superior to the things of the outside world, any Valley citizen and booster will tell you the same thing.

So let us not rest at the conclusion of the great work which we have just accomplished, let us look forward to a greater city, to an improvement of the things which God has placed here for the hand of man to improve. He meant for us to better our condition, else He would not have placed the store of wealth at our very doors.

Let us be up and doing, eyes open to every advantage, giving to the worthwhile things and letting the other kind go by without even a thought. Men can determine the value of a thing almost at first glance—the school of experience has taught that. We cannot afford to halt now, we are on the threshold of the greatest year that has ever been seen in this Valley; let us all have a share in the building of the "Queen cities of the Tennessee Valley."

travel, you can figure that out for yourself.

There is in these fragments of broken up old planets, plenty of material for manufacturing new ones.

MISS FAY LANPHER, young California girl, who "easily and naturally" won the beauty crown of "Miss America," says: "Marriage won't interfere with my career."

Of course not, the real business of human beings on this earth is to make it a little better while they are here, and hand on what ability they have to future generations, that they may also work.

Good qualities, as heredity provides are handed on by women. And the woman whose programme does not include marriage can't possibly have a complete career, no matter what the feminists may say. In a chain the link that breaks is not the successful link.

CHARLES VAIL owned a humble residence, an old furniture van turned into a dwelling, and Vail was a squatter on the land beneath his van.

But it was Vail's home, his piece of the earth. When the van burned at New Brunswick, N. J., Vail cut his throat and died.

This tragedy contains information for single taxers and others that oppose individual ownership of ground. It does seem absurd that a man should say, "I own it," of the earth created a hundred million years before he was born.

But owning lands makes men
fight, as the French did at Verdun, and taking it from them, makes them kill themselves. You can't conquer that with a theory.

TURKS are driving Christians out of Mosul, and Britons complain bitterly to the League of Nations.
Talk of war, however, is premature.
Much time must pass, or serious danger threaten the British Islands, before Britons will allow themselves to be conscripted again.

THE TURKS naturally ask, "If Germans can drive Christian Poles out of German territory, and if Poles can drive Christian Germans out of Polish territory, sending women and children wandering along the roads, why cannot we, good sons of Mohammed, drive out Christians also. What is sauce for the Christian ought to be sauce for the Mohammedan."

SECRETARY MELLON knew his subjects when he said it would be possible to cut excess income tax,
and still get necessary revenues
from the government.

An income tax of 25 per cent. causes a drop of only 4 per cent in total income tax collected. In this country at least, while you can put monstrously heavy taxes into the land you can't collect them.

THOUGHTS

OF THE WEEK

By J. A. West.

Never was it more fittingly exemplified than right now, that cotton is King. Right out of a dull season, and much earlier than is the custom, big business began, and the money tills of the South began to fill up with the revenue from King Cotton. From the time the seed is implanted in the soil until the fleecy locks of snow white fibre begins to show, there is much interest in the outcome. Some of the largest transactions of this country are based on cotton contracts. The farmer has found that cotton is his standby, and that he does not have to beg the buyer to put out real money for it.

THOSE OLD SONGS:
Ever and anon there sweeps across the heart strings the notes of some old song, awakening the slumbering chords and wrings from it a melody of the rarest and sweetest kind.

It may be a song of the nursery,
one of those old lullabies that childhood loved to hear when safely tucked in a mother's arms with tired limbs relaxed, and eyelids heavy, for day was done. There and then as the rocker would go to and fro, a sweet singer with a heart full of love and devotion would sing that old bed-time lullaby, and childhood would take the route to the land of sweetest dreams, soon be tucked away in a downy bed
to dream of dolls and playthings.

It may be the song that a venerable father was humming as he sat on the vine covered front porch, just as the twilight was gathering, and thoughts of the past came thick and fast as he recounted the trials and vicissitudes of an eventful life, and as he sat in the sombre twilight of a life of sacrifice and devotion to those about him, realizing that the lengthening shadows of this earthly existence were falling far down the western slope of life, the words of "Even down to old age all my people shall prove"

"When through the deep waters I call thee to go,"

came from a subdued voice, and the singer was living in the hope of immortality.

These are some of the things that are immortal of which earthly pilgrims can take a part. They are stamped indelibly upon the minds and hearts of those who chanced to hear them, and time can not mar the picture or obliterate the memory of them. They are there, indelible, and who would care to have them erased?

I AM WATER:
Pure bubbling sparkling water. I bubble out from the mountain sides to quench the parched lips of the weary traveler, and finger my way through rocks and moss, stopping occasionally to sing a song of gladness as I gurgle over pebble beds and cobble stones, hastening to get to my river home.

In my clear depths there is life-giving strength, and when you try everything else for satisfaction, I am found to be the real specific. I am the beverage of the old and young alike. Every tongue and creed uses me with perfect liberty, and I have never been known to betray a single trust.

The infant in its mother's arms;
tottering old age depending on a staff for support; youth and beauty
just in the hey-day of happiness;
youth's and maidens bubbling over with enthusiasm; the athlete on the field of contest; pugilists matching super strength; the invalid languishing on a bed of affliction, all pronounce me the one and only one panacea for thirst, the only prescription which can be taken ad libitum with safety.

Use me and always be happy; use

me and I will help knit the muscles of the body into strong fibres of usefulness; use me and the magic of my use will make you grow and thrive and develop into strong manhood and womanhood; use me and the complexion will always be clear; I am the best cosmetic known, and bring the bloom of youth to faded cheeks, and a sparkle to fusterless eyes; use me and I will make that mind strong and resolute, and give to the brain cells
just the proportion of building material needed, that it may be used to minister to a world where much clear thought and prompt action is needed. I AM WATER.

MRS. McELROY HONOREE AT BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. J. W. Frahn and Mrs. Claude Aycock were joint hostesses at a card party on Thursday evening, complimenting Mrs. Dean McElroy of Ada, Ohio, who is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. O'Bryant. The party was given at the home of Mrs. Frahn on Moulton street, and the rooms used for entertaining were pretty with bright fall flowers.

Games of five hundred were participated in at the conclusion of which the first prize for the ladies was awarded to Mrs. Paul Rowden, the second to Mrs. C. O. Foote the first men's trophy to Bill Pappenberg and the second to Charles O'Bryant. On the cut for the consolation prize, Mrs. C. J. O'Bryant Sr. was lucky. The guest of honor was presented a souvenir of the affair, a pair of hand embroidered linen pillow slips.

Late in the evening an elaborate ice course was served.

Miss Ruth Smith of Birmingham is visiting Mrs. W. S. Williams and Mrs. W. W. Dunn.

Miss Louise Hall has returned to her home in Gurley after spending a few days with Mrs. Ernest Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCormick of Lansing Mich., en route home after spending three weeks in Florida at the guests of their niece Mrs. H. A. Wyatt.

Miss Maud Haines of Huntsville is the expected guest of Mrs. Seibert.

Mrs. Dean McElroy and little daughter Elaine will return to their home in Ada, Ohio, on Sunday after spending several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. O'Bryant.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Chenault who are visiting in Louisville, Ky., are expected home on Saturday night.

Misses Jimmy Lou McWright and Josie Lee Almon of Russellville, Elizabeth Sheppard of Selma, Minnie K. Pearson of Laurel, Miss., and Miss Lillian Jones of Camden, Ala., teachers in the Albany schools will be at home for the winter months with Mrs. J. T. Rainey on Jackson street.

Miss Neill of Falkville is visiting her niece, Mrs. Carl Patterson.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Emens leave this week to make their home in Tusculumbia, Ala., in the future.

Mrs. Clarice Bass has returned to Chattanooga, Tenn., after a four weeks visit to relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith Campbell will leave in a few days for Birmingham to make their future home there, much to the regret of their many friends here.

The condition of Miss Flora Gardner who is undergoing treatment at an infirmary in Birmingham is somewhat improved.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Branum and little daughter, have returned from a motor trip to Shelbyville and Lawrenceburg, Tenn.

Miss Gladys Bernardi who is spending the winter in Birmingham will be the weekend guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bernardi.

Mrs. Arthur Jones who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Julian Bibb in Birmingham was joined today by Mr. Jones and their daughter Suzanne for a few days stay.

Mrs. Ina Abshire left yesterday for her home in Louisville, accompanied by Mrs. Tom Ralston, whom she visited here.

Mrs. John P. Matlock is in Hot Springs.

Waited Till the Cows Came Home

"I am indeed glad to write you this letter. I was a terrible sufferer from gases in the stomach and colic attacks. The specialist, our family doctor sent me to Philadelphia, gave me no relief, although I took his medicine till the cows came home. He finally said I would have to be operated on. Luckily I heard of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy then, and although it is now three years since I took a course of it, I have never had a symptom of my old trouble since." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—adv.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: A few weeks ago I met a nice young man. He asked me if I would correspond with him. I told him I would, but I have not heard from him. Would it be proper if I wrote to him first?

LOLA: No, my dear, it would not be proper or wise for you to write this young man first. If he is really interested in you and wishes to know you more intimately he will get in touch with you. For you to take the first step toward a closer friendship would be unbecoming. When you receive a letter from the young man, you can write him as graciously as you choose.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a young man twenty years of age. About a year ago I fell deeply in love with a girl of nineteen. She is engaged to someone else, and seems to care nothing about me.

What should I do? R. J. P. J.: If this young lady is engaged to marry the man she loves there is nothing for you to do but to forget. If you don't permit yourself to be alone frequently you will have no opportunity for brooding. Make it a point to meet new friends and try as hard as you can to have a good time. Although just now it may seem impossible, there will come a time when you will fall in love again.

facilities, in the face of criticism, despite obstructionists, in good faith, and in good humor. He has written his name with kindness, gentleness and with fine courage on the peaks as he passed along the higher trails of human endeavor and accomplishment. We loved him for his warmth of heart, we admired him for his manly traits, we applauded him for his successful career, and we mourn his death as a distinct loss to his family, his friends, and his native state, and.

WHEREAS, we are today celebrating the beginning of an enterprise that is epochal in its sweep, breadth and scope, the bridging of that mighty river that leaves the shores that gave birth to William Simpson Keller; the building of a bridge at a strategic point of the highway systems of both the State and the Nation, and from which, will radiate highways that touch and bind together the Atlantic

Speaking At Site Of Bridge Brings About Love Feast

and of the great commercial route, the Bee Line highway, traversing the state of Tennessee and coming into Albany Decatur across the great bridge now in the process of construction.

The following excerpts are taken from his address:

"I am proud today to return to my native commonwealth, among my old friends and neighbors as a representative at this celebration of my adopted state of Tennessee. Although more than half my life has been spent among the blue grass hills of Tennessee, I spent eight pleasant years in your midst. I am peculiarly grateful for this opportunity to appear at this most significant celebration as a representative of his excellency Austin Peay, governor of Tennessee." Mr. Alexander told why Governor Peay was unable to attend the gathering, owing to previous engagements. He then spoke of the merits of the Tennessee executive and of the order which has been brought from governmental chaos since the executive has been in office. He spoke of the famous Dayton trial and of the stand the governor took against a sneering agnostic world when he sent the message to Dayton that "Tennessee might give up her schools before her Bible, but that the state was arranging to keep both."

Mr. Alexander paid tribute to the memory of W. R. Shelton, former editor and founder of the Albany-Decatur Daily who has laid down his life's work and passed to the land of eternity. The speaker said "I do not know who originated this idea of building the Tennessee River. It should have been done many years ago. The first suggestion I ever heard of it came from the lips of a great Alabamian and a former Tennesseean who has passed over the river that needs no bridge. Many a time have I heard him assert in his newspaper and elsewhere that real, material prosperity could not come to this city until the Tennessee river had been bridged. To bridge this river became his civic battle cry. I do not know what the records may show, but it is my belief that most of the public sentiment for the building of this bridge is due to the unceasing efforts of that gentle gentleman, that manly, courageous spirit, William R. Shelton, founder of the Albany-Decatur Daily, peace to his ashes."

Talking of the development of roads in Tennessee the speaker said of the world of the highway commission of Tennessee.

"The Bee Line highway cuts north and south as the bee flies through the center of Middle Tennessee through the richest valley that the hand of the potter ever modeled. These thousands of tourists, coming through Nashville, Columbia and Pulaski, will enter Alabama at Ardmore and continue south over this bridge. I have a message for you in this connection from the state highway department of Tennessee. The department authorized me to state that within the next few months contracts will be let for a hard surface road between Columbia and Pulaski and thus from the Kentucky line straight south to the Alabama line every inch of the Bee Line highway in Tennessee will be a hard surface road. Within a year these roads will be completed.

In conclusion the speaker declared: "The Tennessee river is not only a native of Tennessee but also a resident of Tennessee, for of its 655 miles of water, 10 are in Mississippi, 50 in Kentucky and 195 in Alabama and 400 in Tennessee. I am glad to observe that you are preparing to do proper honor to that turbulent Tennesseean, the Tennessee river."

"Let me thank you in the name of the people of Tennessee for this great project the bridge across the Tennessee river."

Eslick Warm Hearts

In introducing Congressman Eslick, W. R. Spight had the honor of presenting one of the most able and gifted speakers heard here in many years. Congressman Eslick declared that he was from a district that is affected by the building of this bridge second only to the Albany-Decatur section. Pointing across the waters of the Tennessee toward his native state the speaker asked if ever there had been a conspicuous movement in which Tennesseans had not played an important part. He revealed figures of history, John Sevier, Andrew Jackson, Sam Houston, Davy Crockett, Forrest, Sam Davis and of the first two men to cross the Hindenburg line in the world war, one an Alabamian and the other a Tennessean. He spoke of the relationship between Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky, he referred to Alabama and Tennessee as "Twin Sisters." He talked of the 100 miles of Bee Line highway serving the state of Tennessee and coming into Albany-Decatur, of the vast meaning of the building of the bridge there. He spoke of the expenditure of five millions a year for roads in his native state and of the readiness of his state to supply Alabama with the traffic for the new bridge at its completion. The eloquent address was concluded with the speaker congratulating Alabama upon becoming the gateway of the southland through the erection of the great bridge here, the removal of the last barrier along the Bee Line route.

Brandon's Stirring Talk

After listening to the address of Mr. Eslick, John Patterson in introducing Reverend Claude Orear, declared he had made a grave mistake in his life in not having been born in either Alabama or Tennessee, but that he had soon corrected his error and had come to Alabama to live finding that he was in tune with the people of this section.

Reverend Orear, the governor's former pastor told of the pleasant relationships of the past when he was closely associated with the state chief executive. In his conclusion he referred to Governor Brandon as the most promising governor the state has ever had. He declared that he had often listened to Brandon's advice, observed his political growth with much satisfaction and believed him to be one of Alabama's finest executives.

Governor Brandon's appeal to Alabamians for cooperation, continued progress, loyalty and advancement was the keynote of his splendid address. He gave his support to the $75,000,000 bond issue for good roads in this state and urged the people to consider the issue in its seriousness and the advancement that the state might have with the passage of the issue.

Talking of Mr. Eslick's tribute to great Tennesseans, the governor declared he was convinced that the distinguished Tennessean had been reading Brandon's eulogies on Alabamians. He talked of the occasion as being one of the happiest he had ever known, he said he had never known, he said he had never been more proud of the neighboring states than on the particular day of the celebration.

He then talked of famous Alabamians, in comparison with the greatness of Tennesseans. He mentioned Joseph Wheeler, Richmond P. Hobson, Robert L. Bullard, General W. L. Sibert, Gorgas, the 167th Alabama, the resources in the mountains and streams, the meadows and valleys of Alabama, dividing the state into districts as he talked of the agricultural black belt and the industrial worth of central sections of the state. He asked how we are to take advantage of these resources and replied, "just as we are doing here."

He divided the future advancement of Alabama under three heads. 1. The construction of highways and bridges. 2. The advancement of education and the bettering of educational facilities. 3. Opening of the port of Mobile.

Speaking of the applied application the "promising" Governor, Mr. Brandon spoke of the promises which he has fulfilled since he was placed in the governor's chair. He referred to the passing of the tax adjusters in this state, the refusal to further tax farm lands, the pensioning of Confederate veterans, the taxation of exempt properties. He recalled that he had promised all these things and declared that each of the promises had been carried out.

Pausing for the moment on the criticism aimed at him for the parole of prisoners in Alabama, the chief executive explained that a parole does not mean that the prisoner is free to go, but must live a just and upright life or be called back to pay the full penalty demanded by the state. He declared that an any number of occasions that good citizens of the state have been made through the parole of convicted men. The Governor declared, "I was taught to believe when I was a boy at my mother's knee and if I can reform a man by paroling him, I am going to do it regardless of the criticism that may be directed to me."

In the closing phase of his talk the governor urged Alabamians to keep their money in Alabama and develop the natural resources that Alabama now has. In summarizing his address he urged cooperation over the entire state, the passage of the road bond

NEW WORLD SPEED RECORD IS MADE

Aviator Flies At Rate Of 302.3 Miles An Hour In New York

(Associated Press)

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 18.—An unofficial world speed record was established today when Lieutenant A. J. Williams, navy aviator, flew at the rate of 302.3 miles an hour.

The flight was a test for the Pulitzer races to be held here next month. Williams' time was checked carefully by officials of the Curtiss airplane company. He flew one kilometer in 7.4 seconds. The world's record for airplane speed is 278 miles an hour, held by France.

Williams started his flight by diving from a height of 3000 feet over Curtis field and the leveled off for the one kilometer distance. Later, without alighting, he flew at an average of 268.2 miles an hour on straight flight.

issue, the betterment of school conditions.

Throughout the three addresses the crowd frequently broke into cheering in mention was made of the two great states and the program that is being continued year after year to make them the finest in the entire southland.

Women Who Were Nervous Wrecks Now Miracles of Restored Vitality

G. F. P. Increases the Vitality and Endurance of Girls and Women More Than a Hundred Per Cent.

Since the introduction here of the phenomenal medicine known as St. Joseph's G. F. P., it is nothing unusual to see women past 40 who have the vitality, energy and endurance of a girl of 20. In fact, G. F. P. has made girls out of them again regardless of their age and the wretched nervous and irritable condition they were in.

Many women begin to just feel bad at 30 and by the time they get through trying first one thing then another, to get back that freedom from pain, irregularity, nervousness and all-in condition they have reached 40 and are care-worn, thin, sallow, have no appetite, no energy, and really feel that there is nothing left in this life for them but misery and suffering.

Now these unfortunate ones are having their hopes revived when they see so many who were in the same shape, regaining their vitality and show it by their beaming, smiling, rosy cheeked faces, bright, snappy eyes, a well rounded-out figure, and that wonderful buoyancy which only health can give. St. Joseph's G. F. P. is actually doing this for women right here. It is not a story of something taking place a thousand miles away, where you can't find out if it is true or not.

Hartselle News

COTTON RUSHING TO MARKET

It was estimated that there were four hundred bales of cotton brought to the gins at Hartselle last Thursday by 7 a. m. there were at least two hundred wagons waiting at the four ginning establishments to have their cotton ginned. Many of the farmers are leaving home at twelve o'clock midnight, in order to get to town in the effort to get their ginnings and get back before nightfall.

In dollars and cents the value of the marketed cotton here on Thursday at the prevailing price would be around fifty thousand dollars.

Farmers in many instances are taking their cotton back home, some are depositing in warehouses of the co-operative marketing association, while many of them are selling at prevailing prices.

P. T. A. TO ENTERTAIN TEACHERS

An interesting program has been prepared by the members of the Hartselle Parent Teachers Association, when on Friday evening they will be hosts to the teachers of the two literary schools here. The program will be carried out in the auditorium of the M. C. H. S. and will consist of music, vocal and instrumental, reading, etc. Following the program refreshments will be served.

The members of the local P. T. A. have been very close to the two schools and teachers here since its organization, and have on several occasions contributed in a very worthy way to the success of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Burleson and children of Tampa, Florida, arrived home this week for a stay of several days. Mr. Burleson came home to look after some business matters, and will return soon to Tampa, where he is engaged in cement contracting work. His brother, Joe, is looking after his interests while he is away.

Machinery for the Hartselle bakery is being opened up and installed, and will be ready for operation in a few days. The proprietor Mr. McConnell states that he is meeting with fine encouragement in his new venture, and hopes to produce a quality of home made product that will be readily absorbed by the business interests and the buying public generally.

J. L. Kendall, manager of cedar operations for the Geo. C. Brown Co. of Huntsville, was here on business Thursday afternoon.

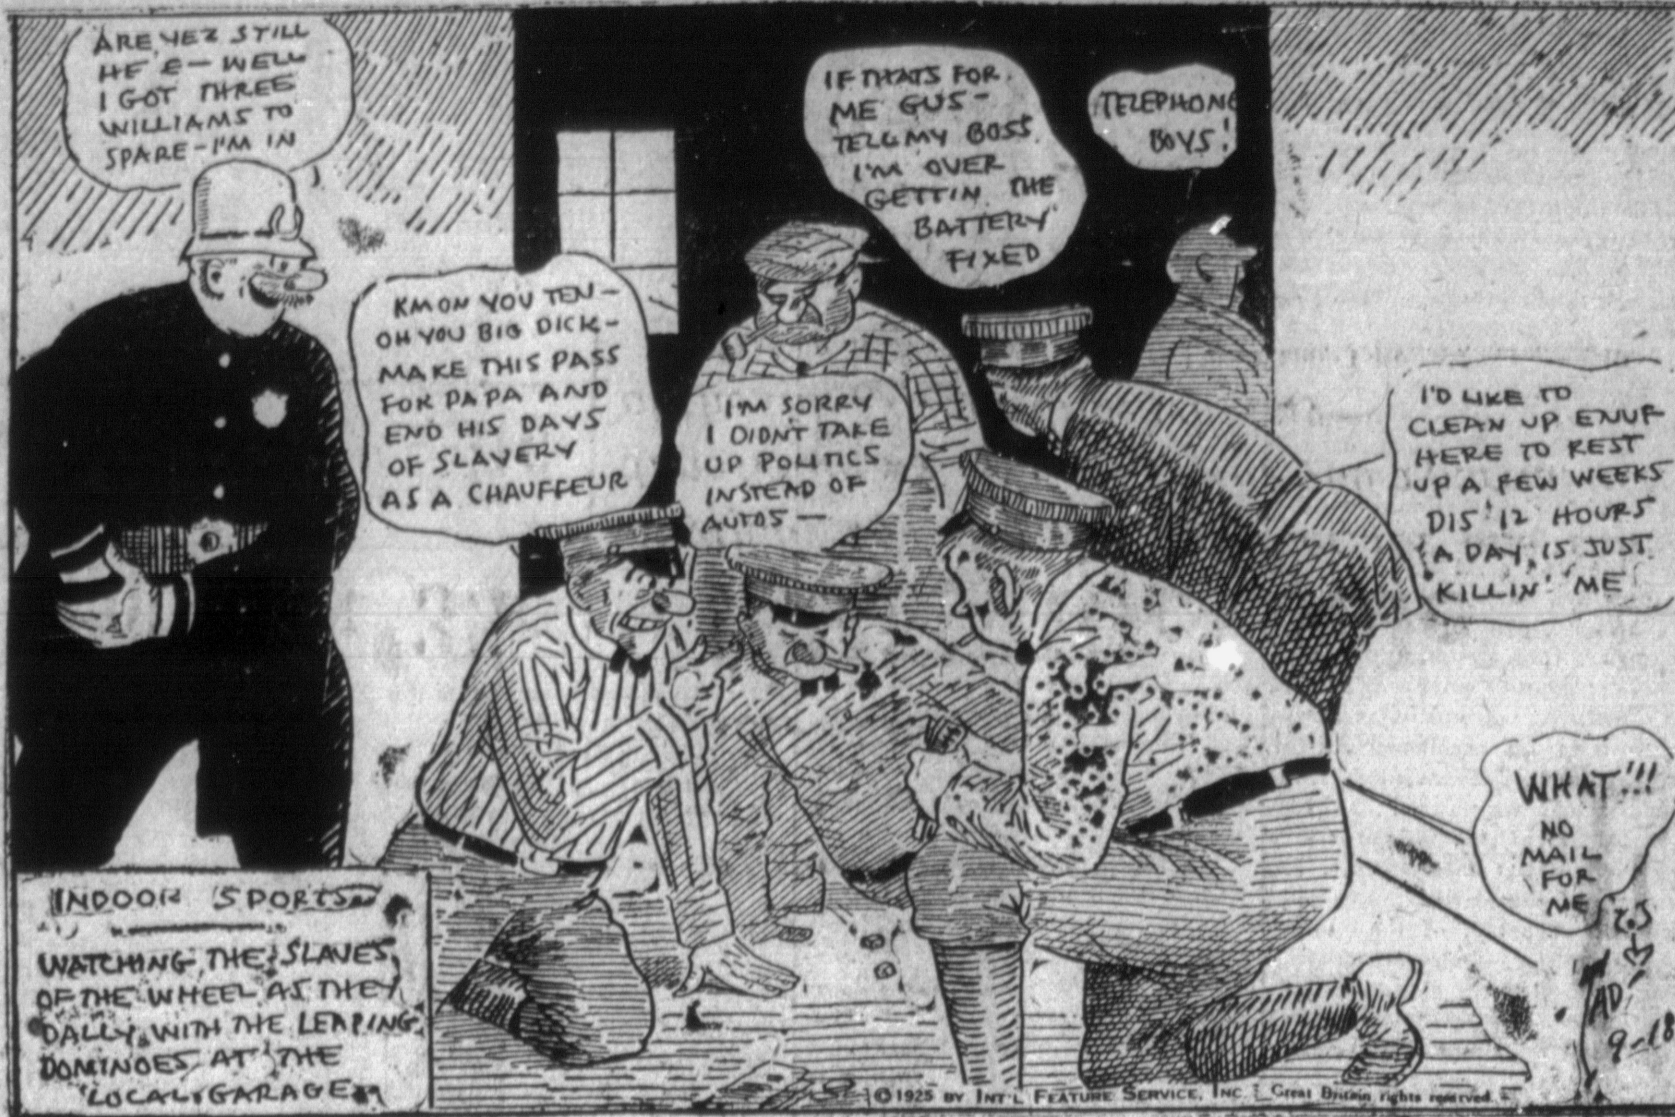

Mr. and Mrs. Hansford C. Hardwick have taken rooms with Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Johnson and will remain here during the school term for the benefit of their children.

W. O. Calloway and family have moved to the Puckett home recently vacated by Ben F. Bean and family. Mr. and Mrs. Bean are occupying the Doss cottage on Main street.

Despite the very hot weather prevailing, farmers are going right ahead gathering their cotton trying to get it out and to market before the advent of bad weather.

The painting crew of the L. & N. railroad are still here, and are winding up the job of putting the L. & N. property here in possession of a brand new dress of paint. The buildings are greatly improved by the paint, and present a very attractive appearance.

A spring worthy of note, having withstood the effects of the prolonged dry spell of weather through which we have been passing for the past several months, is the McClannahan Spring, situated near the bridge over Shoal Creek, 1 mile southeast of here Mr. J. D. McClannahan states, that he has used water from this spring for over a half century and that it was never known to fail. It is running a bold stream of water at present, and doesn't seem to be affected in the least by the prolonged drought.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Bridges have returned from their wedding trip and have taken rooms with Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Tapscott for the present.

The building program for Hartselle this year has greatly exceeded any former year, and public improvement ordinances have run way ahead of former years. This little city has gone forward by leaps and bounds, thanks to the vision of the city authorities. The big problem ahead is water works for the city, adequate for industries. This matter is engaging the attention of the city authorities and the Hartselle Community club combined, and it is confidently believed that some program will be worked out whereby the city can boast of a fine system of water works.

Rev. G. C. Walker and family motored to Birmingham one day this week, returning the next day. He reports the roads fine.

L. G. Gulley is absent from the city this week in Lawrence county, looking after his large cedar interests there.

A new model Ford car received this week by a local dealer, occasioned a great deal of interest to a large number of people who viewed it in the show rooms of this local concern. The car was pronounced a great improvement over previous models.

"Red" Phillips recently accepted a position with the Alabama Power company, and started to work this week in this territory.

The gins are making a record ginning cotton this season. One gin company here announces that seventy-one bales were ginned in one day recently. The cotton is dry and gins fine. It is stated that the boll weevil is very noticeable this season in the cotton being ginned by his absence. Last season thousands of them went through the gin heads and came out the dust and trash spouts.

Atlanta Clinches Flag As Barons Take Count; Johnson Is Clouted From the Hill

The Atlanta Crackers clinched the Southern league pennant Thursday with a victory over the Birmingham Southern league club. The Barons in the final analysis proved to be stepping stones to success for the winners of the 1925 flag while they also played a villainous role against the New Orleans Pelicans.

Atlanta seized an excellent opportunity yesterday at the Cracker park and scored three times in the fifth for enough to tide them over safely. They now have a three game lead over the Pels with only two more games to play.

The last time Atlanta copped the bunting was in 1919. The club was then under the leadership of Cholly Frank. Nelhoff, leader of the Georgians has been fortunate in grabbing pennants lately. He gathered a flag for Mobile back in 1923. Johnny Dobbs took the leadership last year with the Memphis Chicks and Nelhoff returns this year with a gathering of clouters second to none in the league to wrest the pennant from the falling hands of New Orleans after one of the most exciting races ever witnessed in the Sunland circuit.

Atlanta will shortly open a series with the winner of the Texas league series now being played off by Fort Worth and Dallas. At present the Crackers opposition will come from Fort Worth the Cats having gathered a pair of wins from Dallas in the last two starts. Wednesday the Cats pounded Dallas hurlers for a 10-3 victory.

In an effort to take his 20th victory of the season, the veteran Walter Johnson was blasted from the mound Wednesday when Detroit got busy on the Smoke Kings delivery. Johnson was taken from the hill with the seventh defeat of the year being recorded against him. Stan Coveleskie hurled brilliantly in the night cap of the twin bill against the Tigers and registered his 18th victory of the year, Coveleskie bested Whitehill 1-0.

The failure of Johnson to win his coveted 20th game is a disappointment to fandom. He will have at least two or three more trials before the season is brought to a close and fandom up and down the earth hope that he will be able to reach his mark.
